PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER
A Never-Failing Cure for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Cuts, Sores, etc.
After forty years of trial, Perry Davis' Pain Killer stands unrivaled. It is safe! It acts immediately! It never fails!
Editor of the St. John (N. B.) News, says:
In such countries, pain, sickness, etc., [illegible] is the case of nearly we know of. No family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour.
From the Cincinnati Dispatch:
We have known it to work magic effects, and [illegible] to be a real article.
From L. B. Potter, U. S. Consul at Crefeld, Rhenish Prussia:
After four years' use, I am satisfied it is positively efficient as a healing remedy for wounds, bruises, and sprains.
W. W. Sharper, Valdosta, Ga., says:
It has a panacea for all bruises and burns.
From R. W. Adams, Saco, Me.:
It is the best liniment I ever used.
R. Lewis says:
In forty years' [illegible] it has all done.
W. W. Lunt, Nicholville, N. Y., says:
I have used Pain Killer frequently. It never [illegible] and heals wounds like magic.
J. W. Dee says:
For scalds and burns it has no equal.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not a new untried remedy. For forty years it has been in constant use and those who have used it the longest are its best friends.
Its extensive sale is the best evidence of its merit. Since the Pain Killer was first introduced, hundreds of new medicines have come and gone, while to-day this medicine is more extensively used and more highly valued than ever before. Every family should have a bottle ready for use. Much pain and heavy doctors' bills may often be saved by prompt application of the Pain Killer. Taken internally, it is perfectly safe even in the hands of a child. Try it once thoroughly, and it will prove its value. Your druggist has it at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

POETICAL.

A MODERN WITCH.

"And he went up in January,
And never came down till June."

I think me oft in the twilight
Of a lady and her hat
The former was little and vicious,
The latter was large and flat.
The lady went to the church, the plat
And wherever she went the shout
Went up from the many who could not see,
"Confound it! put her out!"

She was not to be extinguished.
"I have paid," she said, "and I'll stay.
I'll wear that hat"—and she clenched her hand—
"Till the crack of the Judgment-day.
I'll fasten it tight around my throat,
And pin it fast to my hair.
Let there come the dreadfrost hurricane,
The world shall find it there."

There came a breeze from heaven
Of a rather malevolent kind.
It caught that hat, and took it up,
And the lady went behind.
Now this was several years ago,
And all of them full of pain;
For with nothing to ride she still strolls on,
And will never come down again.

FOOTPRINTS.

HELEN T. CLARK

Across the day—across the night—
Like countless doves in silent flight,
Floats down the feathery, stainless white,
Unbroken gleams a moment's space
Without a touch, without a trace,—
Too soon to dark despoil gives place.

The hire of wheels, the haste of feet
Gray toil at shivery dawn to meet,—
The thousand soilings of the street,—
Oh, thousand ways the footprints lead!
To shame and dole, to gloom and greed,
To joy, and hope, and Christly deed.

The whiteness, caught by smirching clay,
In secret mode, in destined day,
Back to pure snow shall find its way.
The footsteps lost in doubt and crime,
In love's own way, in love's own time,
Shall leave the clinging slough and slime

And up the steeps of good be set.
Oh, help, ye loftier souls, nor let
One longed for word, withheld as yet,
Die on your lips!—one reach of hand
From sunlit levels where you stand,
Fail the spent strength at love's demand!

SELECT STORY.

A NOTORIOUS OUTLAW.

Jesse James, one of the most daring villains that ever lived, was assassinated at St. Joseph, Missouri, on the morning of the 3rd inst. There has been a price on his head for some time, and he was killed by two men named Ford, who were employed by detectives. The great outlaw and the two Fords were together in a front room in Jesse James' house. Unconscious of danger James unbuckled his belt and threw it on the bed preparatory to washing himself. He was unarmed. Suddenly Bob Ford, the youngest man of the three, sprang to his feet and pulled a revolver. Before James understood what was going on Ford had cocked it and pulled the trigger. The aim was a true one. The bullet crashed through the back of Jesse James' head, passed through the right brain and came out just above the eye. The great outlaw fell to the floor. Hardly had the shot been fired when there was a piercing scream. The dead man's wife rushed into the room and flung herself upon the prostrate body and gave way to her grief in a flood of tears. The Fords immediately gave themselves up and were hurried away to the court house and a guard immediately put on duty. The news spread like wildfire. The house was surrounded by excited people and hundreds of persons talked about the bloody deed on the streets. The body was taken in charge by the police and photographed. Persons who had known the outlaw were allowed to view the remains. They declared that there was no doubt this time and at last the great bandit had been killed. The face is fine-looking and intelligent and would not be taken for that of a cruel murderer. The house was searched and found to contain a quantity of firearms and ammunition. In the stable were several splendid horses.

A CAREER OF CRIME.

The death of Jesse James will pretty effectually break up the daring band of outlaws which he has led. Only his brother Frank and Jim Cummings remain at large. In the career of the James boys they have been at the head of many bandits. Most of these are now dead or in prison. At Independence, Missouri, Dick Little and others of the band who participated in the Glendale, Winston and Blue Cut train robberies, are locked up. Little has confessed and is helping the officers and now only Frank James and Jim Cummings remain to be captured. The James boys—and more audacious and cruel villains never lived—were raised in Clay county, Missouri. Frank was born in 1841 and Jesse in 1845. Their father was a Baptist minister, who was driven from home by his wife and went to California, where he died in 1851. Mrs. James subsequently married Dr. Reuben Samuels, a respectable citizen. She is still alive and proud of her outlaw boys. She lives on a farm, near Kearney, seventeen miles northeast of Kansas City. It was here and about Kearney that Frank and Jesse James led uneventful lives until the breaking out of the 1861-1865 war. The atrocities produced by the war in Missouri made outlaws of the James boys. Frank James joined Quantrell's guerrillas when he was twenty years old. He soon became noted for his daring and murderous [illegible]city. Jesse, only fourteen years old, sought service at the same time, but was rejected as too young. His stepfather, Dr. Samuels, was a secessionist and in 1862 a body of Federals raided his house and swung him up. His wife cut him down in time to save his life. Jesse was threatened with hanging, but his youth saved him, although he was cuffed and abused.

JESSE JOINS THE BAND.

This so enraged Jesse that he again sought Quantrell's band and implored to be admitted. He was accepted, his brother Frank interceding for him. Thus the lad of fifteen began a life of murder and crime, a career of daring and desperate deeds that has no parallel in history. Frank had already attained eminence in Quantrell's gang of murderers and cut-throats, and Jesse, emulating his example, soon eclipsed him and became the leader in all expeditions where nerve, daring bravery and a reckless disregard for his own or other lives were required. In Quantrell's command the James boys found congenial spirits in Cole and Jim Younger, Jarrette, Clell Miller, George Shepherd and others who have been partners in their robberies since the war. Both were in Quantrell's band of two hundred when Lawrence, Kansas, was sacked, burned and nearly every male inhabitant ruthlessly murdered. Jesse James boasted at the time to have shot down thirty-six. The Younger brothers, who were his boon companions, were raised in Jackson county, Mo., within four miles of Independence. Probably no horror of equal enormity or atrocity was ever perpetrated than the massacre at Centralia, Mo., a way station on the Wabash Railroad, in Boone county. Here, on September 27, 1864, Bill Anderson, assisted by Jesse and Frank James, killed thirty two invalid soldiers in cold blood. They first raided the village and sacked the stores. Then, waiting for the eastbound train, they stopped it and robbed the passengers of their money. Among the passengers were thirty-two sick soldiers en route from St. Joseph to St. Louis for better hospital accommodations These poor wretches were marched out and aligned by Frank and Jesse James, and Bill Anderson, with his own hands, shot and killed every man of them, a pistol being handed him by either Frank or Jesse as fast as he emptied the one in hand. Scarce had the diabolical massacre been finished before a company of Iowa volunteers appeared in the distance, and they too, became victims to the unerring aim of these bandits. Thus within two hours eighty slain were piled about the village. Such scenes as these hardened the James boys and made their latter-day crimes merely trivial in comparison.

MORE DARING DEEDS.

When the war ended Missouri became too hot to hold the guerrillas. Jesse James accompanied George Shepherd to Texas, while Frank followed the fortunes of Quantrell into Kentucky. For three years the James boys sank from public gaze. In the spring of 1868 Jesse James, accompanied by Cole Younger, Al. Shepherd, George Shepherd and Jim White, dashed into Russellville, Ky., and robbed the bank of $14,000. Their first robbery in Missouri took place in Gallatin, where not only did they rob the bank, but deliberately shot and killed Captain Sheets, the cashier, after they had collected all the money. For two years the James boys hung around the Rio Grande frontier in Mexico. In 1870 they returned. Corydon, Iowa, a prosperous village near the Missouri line, was invaded and the bank relieved of $40,000. Then the boys kept quiet for two years more, when they suddenly appeared with Cole, Jim and John Younger at Columbia, Ky., robbed the bank and shot down the cashier. In the fall of that year the boys rode up to the box office of the County Agricultural Fair, held at Kansas City. Jesse James thrust a revolver through the window and demanded the money. The box, containing $10,700, was handed out and the outlaws dashed away, firing their pistols. This daring exploit was followed in six weeks by the robbery of the bank at St. Genevieve. Nobody was killed here, but $4,000 was poured into the capacious mouth of the bandits' saddle bags. They were followed northwest to the Missouri, where all trace of them was lost.

AS TRAIN ROBBERS.

The next heard of them was in June of 1873. The James boys were recognized around home in Clay county, and shortly after their appearance a train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad was wrecked and the express messenger was robbed of $6,000. Then came the robbery of an Iron Mountain Railroad train at Gad's Hill. They took possession of the station, switched the train on a side track and, at their leisure, Clell Miller, Jesse and Frank James and Jim and Cole Younger stripped the passengers of their surplus wealth and robbed the express car of $11,500. Detectives were sent to hunt them out, but their traps were never entered by the outlaws and the detectives generally lost their lives. The Youngers were ferreted out by Captain Tull, of the Chicago police, and James Wright and Deputy Sheriff McDaniels, of Osceola. Their business was suspected, however, and in a fight McDaniels and John Younger were killed and Captain Tull subsequently died. Then the gang disappeared until 1874, when they robbed a train on the Kansas Pacific, near Muncie, and obtained $24,000 and disappeared in the woods. Clell Miller and Hinds were arrested for the Muncie robbery, Miller in Carroll county and Hinds at Independence, the county seat of Jackson county, ten miles from Kansas City. Miller, after his arrest, captured the Sheriff in charge and holding him in front of his body bade him send his deputies away, and with a revolver muzzle in his ear the officer complied, and the bold highwayman escaped; but his end was not many years distant. Hinds escaped in about the same manner from the officers of Independence and has never been heard from.

IN PURSUIT OF THE BANDITS.

So hot was the pursuit after the Muncie robbery that the outlaws separated and the James boys went to Texas. In September, 1875, Frank joined Cole Younger, Thompson McDaniels and a man known as Keen, alias Hinds, and robbed a bank at Huntington, West Virginia. In less than two hours a posse of over one hundred men started in pursuit. In the mountains, nearly one hundred miles from Huntington, a fight took place between the officers and fleeing robbers Thompson McDaniels was killed and Keen, alias Hinds, captured. Keen was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary and is now serving his time. He has never told his true name. Frank James joined Jesse in Texas and the band was increased by the addition of several outlaws from the Indian Territory. In July, 1876, their plans were completed and the east-bound passenger train on the Missouri Pacific Railroad was robbed at a point about twenty miles east of Sedalia, called Otterville. The train was stopped by obstructions and the outlaws captured $15,000 in the safe in the express car. Hobbs Henry, one of the robbers, was captured and confessed, and of all concerned only the James boys escaped. Three of their companions were killed.

FIGHTING IN THE STREETS.

A trip was next planned to Northfield, Minnesota. Bill Chadwell, a horse thief, joined the band, which included Cole, Jim and Bob Younger, Jesse and Frank James, Clell Miller, Charley Pitts and Chadwell. This was in September, 1876. On the afternoon of the 7th the desperadoes dashed into town, shooting their revolvers and halting in front of the Northfield Bank. While Frank and Jesse James and Bob Younger entered, the other five remained outside to guard against attack. J. L. Hayward, the cashier, and two clerks were in the institution at the time. For refusing to open the time-lock Jesse James sent a ball into Hayward's brain. Meantime the citizens on the street realized what was going on and opened fire on the robbers. Chadwell was shot from his horse by a man from the court house window, just opposite the bank, and in a few seconds Clell Miller, who had escaped dozens of times in Missouri, was also killed. By this time the firing became general and Jesse James was in the tightest place of his life. Jim Younger had a bullet in his mouth and Frank James one through his left leg, but the entire six succeeded in mounting their horses and escaping from the town Then began a flight and pursuit, which for persistence and endurance is almost without a parallel. The robbers were in a strange and unknown country, followed by fifty armed men When it was seen that the chase was to be to the death a proposition was made to separate. Before this time Jesse James wanted Bob Younger killed, as the blood from his wound made a plain trail, but Cole Younger would not allow it, and said he would kill the first man who dared lay a finger on his wounded brother. Jesse and Frank James went off in a northerly direction, while the three Youngers and Charley Pitts remained in a body. As on all previous occasions, luck followed the James boys, for, while they escaped after being pursued nearly five hundred miles, the Youngers were shot down and captured, and Pitts was killed. The three former were terribly wounded before they would surrender, and are now serving life sentences in the Minnesota Penitentiary at Stillwater. Jesse and Frank James, after being chased for weeks, succeeded in reaching Texas, and at Waco, Frank had a surgical operation performed upon his leg in consequence of the bullet he received at Northfield.

AT IT AGAIN.

In the fall of 1879 the boys returned to their old haunts in Clay county and very soon had about them a new gang ready to follow wherever a rich haul was in sight. Among the recruits were Ed Miller, brother of Clell, killed at Northfield; Jim Cummings, a noted Clay county horse thief; Tucker Basham, Ed Ryan and Dick Little. The last three were young farmers' sons, who, led on by the persuasive power of Jesse James, went blindly into the work. They robbed a train on the evening of October 8th at Glendale on the Chicago and Alton, and secured $25,000 or $30,000. The gang scattered at once. James Ligget, at that time marshall of Jackson county, at once organized a strong party to capture the robbers, if possible, and George Shepherd, a former friend of Jesse James, was taken into their confidence. Shepherd was to betray Jesse. A plan was laid to rob the bank at Galena, Mo. Shepherd came back and reported that he had killed Jesse, but it was only a put-up job to secure the $5,000 reward. Then followed the recent robberies at Winston and Blue Cut, which are still fresh in the public mind. After the Blue Cut robbery Jesse hid at his mother's house in Kearney. He had shot himself during the flight and was badly wounded. Little in a fuss, killed Wood Hite, Jesse's best friend, and had to leave the gang. He then gave himself up and has confessed all about the recent Robberies. Jesse and Ed Miller, he says, had a quarrel about the spoils after the Blue Cut robbery and Miller was shot by Jesse. The death of Jesse will about put an end to the outlaws. There is no other leader so daring.

PRESIDENTIAL COUNT BILL.

The Presidential Count Bill was taken up in the Senate on Thursday, April 6th and passed without amendment. The following are the provisions of the bill: That the presidential electors of each state shall meet and give their votes on the second Monday in January next following their appointment, at such place as the legislature of the state may direct; that each state, pursuant to its laws existing on the day fixed for the appointment of electors, may determine prior to the meeting of the electors any controversy concerning the appointment of all or any of them; that such determination shall be conclusive evidence of their lawful title and shall govern in the count by congress; that no electoral vote or votes from any state from which but one return has been received shall be rejected except by affirmative votes of the two houses; that if more than one return is received from a state the votes of those electors who have been appointed by the lawful tribunal of the state shall be counted; in the event of the question as to which of two or more of such state tribunals is the lawful tribunal, and the votes of the electors appointed by that tribunal which the two houses, acting separately, shall decide to be the authorized one, shall be counted; that in case of an undetermined contest between two or more sets of electors of a state those votes shall be counted which the houses, acting separately, shall decide to be the lawful electoral votes. The bill also provides that if the counting of the votes shall not have been completed before the 5th calendar day next after the first joint meeting of the two houses, no recess shall be afterward taken by either house until the counting is finished.

Three Fables.

THE BEAR AND THE BEES.

A bear wishing to rob a beehive, laid himself down in front of it, and overturned it with his paw. "Now," said he, I will lie perfectly still and let the bees sting me until they are exausted and powerless; their honey may then be obtained without opposition." And it was so obtained, but by a fresh bear, the other being dead. This narrative exhibits one aspect of the Fabian policy.

THE BEAR IN A QUANDARY.

A polar bear navigating the mid-sea upon the mortal part of a late lamented walrus, soliloquized in substance as follows: "Such liberty of action as I am afflicted with is enough to embarrass any bear that ever bore. I can remain passive, and starve, or I can devour my ship and drown. I am really unable to decide." So he sat down to think it over. He considered the question in all its aspects, until he grew quite thin; turned it over and over in his mind until he was too weak to sit up, meditated upon it with a constantly decreasing pulse a rapidly failing respiration. But he could not make up his mind, and finally expired without having come to a decision. It appears to me, he might almost as well have chosen starvation at a venture.

THE DOG, THE RAVEN AND THE MUTTON.

A dog finding a joint of mutton, apparently guarded by a negligent raven, stretched himself before it with an air of intense satisfaction.

"Ah!" said he, alternately smiling and stopping up the smiles with meat, "this is an instrument of salvation to my stomach—an instrument upon which I love to perform."

"I beg your pardon," said the bird. "It was placed there specially for me, by one whose right to so convey it is beyond question, he having legally acquired it by ch

THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14th, 1882.

Col. F. A. Conkling, brother of Roscoe, is talked of as Democratic condidate for Governor of New York.

A niece of General Sherman has just taken the veil of the Order of Sisters of Mercy. She will be known in religion as Sister Mary Veronica.

The Democratic State Convention will meet at Harrisburg on Wednesday June 28th; the Wolfe Independents will meet at the same place on Wednesday May 24th and the Cameron Stalwart Republicans on Monday May 8th.

Judge Wylie of the Washington criminal court, has decided that the indictments against the Star Route men must stand, and the defendants must answer. This decision was unexpected, and the jobbers are greatly disappointed.

It is stated on what appears to be good authority that Jesse James, the notorious outlaw recently killed, was a delegate from Mississippi to the Chicago convention under the name of Johnson. We are not informed whether he was one of the "306."

The Muncy Creek Railway is advertised for sale at Hughesville, August 9th, 1882, at 11 a. m. The sale is advertised by John Craig as trustee for the bondholders, and will be sold at five thousand dollars cash, the balance in thirty days thereafter.

The President's veto of the Chinese bill was received with disgust by the citizens of California. Some suggested forming anti-Chinese leagues and driving them from the coast. Public meetings were called, and in some places the President was hung and burnt in effigy.

A committee of investigation has reported favorably to the Easton Board of Trade, upon the propositions of Mr. Herman Simons of Hoboken to establish a silk factory. Suitable ground has been offered for the erection of the factory, and $10,000 subscribed to the stock of the company.

Buffalo Bill may never be seen again on the dramatic stage. The descendants of Philip Cody, Bill's father, have laid claim to about fifty acres of ground on Euclid avenue, right in the centre of the city of Cleveland. If their claim is allowed, the family will be a million dollars richer, and then the hero of the "Scouts of the Prarie" will retire from the boards, perhaps to reappear in Congress.

The second annual convention of the State Constitutional Amendment Association will be held in Huntingdon on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 9 and 10. The call, which is signed by Ex-Chief Justice Agnew, invites all auxiliary Constitutional Amendment Associations, Women's Christian Temperance Unions, Temples of Honor, Royal Templars and other temperance societies to send delegates.

President Arthur vetoed the Chinese bill on the ground that twenty years is too long a period of prohibition of Chinese immigration. The Republican National Convention of 1880 declared that the unrestricted immigration of these people is "an evil of great magnitude" and called upon congress to enact laws regulating the same. It took a republican congress two years to pass a law, and immediately an accidental President vetoes it upon a very flimsy excuse, and stalwart organs endorse his action. This shows what the professions of republicanism are worth.

The usual machine programme has been carried out by the tools of Cameron in this county. At a recent meeting of the so called republican standing committee, most of the members of which we believe were appointed by the chairman, D. A. Beckley and B. F. Crispin were chosen delegates to the State convention, with instructions to vote for Beaver for Governor. J. C. Brown was recommended as senatorial delegate, with power to choose his own conferees. Beaver is securing all the delegates from nearly all the minority counties. A wise discretion on the part of the Democratic convention in the selection of a candidate, will give the democrats the next Governor.

In a contested election case recently heard before Judge Elwell at a special court in Centre County, it was held in an opinion filed, that persons whose residence in an election district began on the 16th day of December 1880 were not qualified voters at an election held on the 15th day of February 1881,—although they had resided in the district sixty-one days. In computing time by months, the right method is to proceed from a given day in one month, to a day with a corresponding number in an ensuing month, without regard to the number of days embraced within those periods.

In fixing the time of residence requisite to entitle one to vote in a district at two months, the framers of the constitution rejected any other mode of computing the time than that above stated.

"Jumbo," the big elephant that Barnum, Baily, & Hutchinson recently purchased in England has just arrived in New York city. He was brought over on the steamship Assyrian Monarch. A large box, or cage, was built upon the main deck just large enough to cover him, measuring thirteen feet in length, twelve feet in height, and six feet eight inches in width. It was made of three inch yellow pine planks, fastened together by seven-inch beams, and straps of heavy iron. The entire box weighed about six tons, or one-half ton less than the weight of the elephant. He measures eleven feet six inches in height, the extreme spread of his ears is fifteen feet, and he can reach up twenty-six feet with his trunk. His daily diet on his journey consisted of ten or fifteen loaves of bread, two bushels of oats, three quarts of onions, a bushel of biscuit, two hundred pounds of hay and as much fruit, candies, &c as the passengers would give him. He cost his present owners until he arrived in New York about $30,000, although $10,000 was the price paid for him. They were obliged to pay the fare of 200 steerage passengers, because of the London Board of trade who forbade the vessel taking steerage passengers along with the elephant. Jumbo is about seventy-five years of age. The vessel was fourteen days crossing the ocean.

The Huntington Reformatory.

Governor Hoyt has made an inspection of the eastern penitentiary for the purpose of obtaining information for his own enlightenment in discussing the best plans for housing the inmates of the proposed new reformatory at Huntington. The governor is a member of the commission to erect that institution, and it was through his efforts that the plan was changed from a middle penitentiary to a reformatory. It has been found that the architect who drew the plans for the buildings has based them on the three story system, something to which the commision is unanimously opposed—the one story plan of the eastern penitentiary being their first choice. As there are twenty acres in the Huntington plot there will be plenty of room for the enlarged area demanded in spreading out the building on the one story plan.

Mitchell vs. Cameron.

And now there is more trouble in the stalwart camp. Don Cameron has influenced Arthur to remove Sulllivan, collector of the twenty third internal revenue district of this state, and appointed in his place Colonel Jackson. This was done in opposition to the expressed wishes of Senator Mitchell, and representatives Miller, Bayne and Shallenberger. Senator Mitchell has notified Cameron that he will oppose the confirmation, and says that the motive of Cameron in this removal was his hostility to Bayne, and that Jackson is to be used, with the patronage of his office, to defeat Baym's re-election, simply because the latter will not bow down and worship before Cameron's shrine. Miller does not propose that the patronage of the administration shall be used in any such way, and he intends to expose the Camerons and their henchmen in this nefarious business. Let the kettle boil! With the breach that is growing wider between Don Cameron of the one part, and Governor Hoyt, Attorney General Palmer, Senator Mitchell and Charles S. Wolfe of the other, the days of Republican misrule in Pennsylvania are drawing to a close.

PRISONERS TO BE PENSIONED.

Mr. DeMott introduced into the house on Monday a bill for the relief of soldiers of the war of the rebellion who were confined in rebel prisons. Such soldiers shall be pensioned at the rate of eight dollars per month, in cases where the term of imprisonment shall have been ninety days and less than one year, one dollar per month additional for each full month of such imprisonment in excess of one year, and two dollars per day for each and every day's confinement in said confederate military prisons, and that said pensions shall be payable in the same manner as other pensions are paid.

Should this bill become a law, it puts these prisoners, who much rather chose imprisonment to facing the cannon's mouth, on an equality with those who faced danger, and either lost their lives or still carry with them the marks of the hard fought battles. There were many who much preferred being captured and took their chance of either escaping from the prison or being exchanged for other prisoners, than to pass through the heat of the battle and risk their lives; and now these same ones who in time of greatest need would shirk duty, are to be placed on the list of pensioners. Next in order will come those who remained at home and proclaimed their loyalty by encouraging others to go to battle.

He was not bashful.

The following capital story is from London: Some days since the trains on the North London Railway were all late, and consequently every platform was crowded. At one of the stations an importunate passenger attempted to enter an already overcrowded compartment, but one of the occupants stoutly resisted the intrusion, thereupon the importunate one said, "I will soon settle this," and called a guard to the carriage door. He then requested the official to ask two of the occupants to produce their tickets, which proved to be third class ones. In spite of the delinquents protesting there was no room in the train elsewhere, they were ejected, and the importunate one took their place. The other passengers were naturally rather indignant, and seeing this, the successful intruder quietly said:

"I am very sorry to have had to turn those two gentlemen out, especially as I heard one of them say they were already late for an important engagement in the city; and I am all the more sorry seeing that I only hold a third-class ticket myself."

Converting a Policeman.

A policeman was passing a church in New Castle, when a gentleman came out and jokingly accosted him, saying he was wanted inside. The policeman, thinking there was trouble in the church went in. The sexton, seeing a policeman, said:

"Come right in here," and he took him to a pew and waved his hand, as much as to say. "Help yourself."

There was another man in the pew, a deacon with a sinister expression, as the policeman thought, and he supposed that he was the man they wanted arrested; so he tapped the deacon on the arm and told him to come along. The deacon turned pale and edged along to get away, when the policeman took him by the collar and jerked him out in the aisle. The deacon struggled, thinking the policeman was crazy, but he was dragged along. Many of the congregation thought the deacon had been doing something wrong, and some of them got behind the deacon and helped the officer in getting the deacon out.

The policeman saw the man who told him he was wanted in church, and asked him what was the charge against the deacon, and he replied that he did not know. The sexton was next appealed to, and he didn't know, and finally the prisoner was asked what it was all about, and he didn't know.

The policeman was asked what he arrested the man for, and he didn't know, and after a while the matter was explained and the policeman, who had to arrest somebody, took the man into custody who told him he was wanted in the church, and he was fined five dollars and costs. The man now says he will never try to convert a policeman again.

Centre Institute.

A District Institute convened in the Hidlay Church, Centre township, Columbia county, Pa. March 25, 1882.

Superintendent J. S. Grimes called the Institute to order at 11.15 a. m. and opened the session with a short, cheering address to its members.

J. G. Whitmire was appointed secretary

An essay on "Knowledge" was then read by Charles Creasy.

A contest in Spelling followed, in which representatives of four schools took part.

The Chair appointed the necessary committees and they discharged their duties satisfactorily.

The superintendent made some brief remarks on the necessity of pupils putting requests in writing. After which the Institute adjourned for one hour.

The Institute, in the afternoon was opened with a fervent prayer by the Rev. Mr Spear.

Next in order was a competitive exercise in Reading, followed by an appropriate and very impressive address by Professor William Noetling, of the Bloomsburg Normal School, which was deeply educational showing what advantage there is in paying teachers large salaries, in employing instructors loyal to their calling and in electing men for school directors who are highly interested in the advancement of education. The Rev. Mr. Spear also gave a short address which was appreciated.

A competitive exercise in rapid addition followed.

The committee on Spelling reported in favor of the Whitmire school. The committee on Reading reported that Susie Hicks of the Hicks school and Morris J Whitmire of the Whitmire school, received the highest grade in that branch. The committee on rapid addition reported as follows: In the first contest Oliver C. Young of the Whitmire school, in the second contest Chas. A. Shaffer, of the same school and in the third contest Della Hidlay, of the Hidlay school, gave the greatest number of correct answers.

The pupils of the Whitmire school entertained the audience about forty minutes with recitations, declamations, essays &c. after which Superintendent J. S Grimes addressed the Institute on the necessity of facilities (such as Maps, Globes, Primary Reading Charts, Unabridged Dictionaries &c.) in our common schools.

Thanks were tendered to the trustees for the use of the church, and to the choir who enlivened the occasion with choice music.

We spent a very pleasant season, and these associations so pleasing to us all were again renewed and shall ever be treasured in our memory.

The Institute adjourned with music by the choir.

J. G. WHITMIRE, Sec.

The Scientific American for March, describes a very simple but ingenious device for frightening cattle off a railroad track when the clamors of whistle and bell prove unavailing. In some portions of the country where cattle run free and railroad trains are in consequence often compelled to run slow, the stray cattle upon the track are a daily aggravation as well as danger. Often a stupid animal refuses to understand that it is its duty to turn aside and not run straight ahead along the track, and the train is obliged to follow at a corresponding pace, with the engine whistle blowing lustily, and often with the fireman running ahead making futile efforts to persuade the cow to alter her course by discharging lumps of coal or sticks of wood at her, while the passengers goad him to madness and profanity by derisive shouts and laughter. Science, however, has proved equal to the emergency, and has added a cow-scarer to the cow-catcher. It consists of a bent steam pipe secured on the nose of the cow-catcher and perforated with a number of small holes. Another pipe connects this with the engine boiler, and when the train is obliged to slow up on account of cattle refusing to leave the track the boiler pressure is turned into this pipe and a shower-bath of steam and heat comes out with a great noise and is thrown far in advance. An obdurate cow thus stimulated in the rear is thereby rendered so unhappy that she immediately forsakes the railroad track for fresh fields and pastures new.

Gen. C. M. Bleeker opens the campaign this week by announcing his name as a candidate for the lower branch of the Legislature, from the south side of the river. There will probably be several other candidates from that section, and the fight promises to be lively.

A large line of new goods will be added to the stock at the COLUMBIAN stationery store, next week, consisting of account books, memorandum books, time books, pass books, pens, pencils, rubbers, ink, mucilage, paper cutters, ink-stands, &c. We will show some elegant photograph frames.

In our report of council proceedings last week a slight error was made as to wages fixed for the coming year. It should be as follows: for labor $1.25 per diem, for cobbling $1.50. It was also ordered that the street commissioner notify all persons whose pavements are out of order to repair them within twenty days from date of notice.

At a meeting of the P. & R. railroad company at Philadelphia on the 4th inst., it was decided to make the extension of the P. & R. road by way of Sunbury. This route was secured by the energies of Hon. S. P. Wolverton of Sunbury. The road is to be a trunk line, double track, and to be a short route between New York and the West.

Some time ago Pat Reilly, of Oliphant, Lackawanna county, was committed to the Danville Insane Hospital for a murderous assault upon Rev. Father O'Rourke, whom the insane man insisted had bewitched him. On Saturday the prisoner escaped and resisted an effort to rearrest him. He has gone to the woods, where he is in concealment.

The Danville papers are once more complaining of the irregular morning mail, and look forward to the completion of the North Branch road when they hope to have the mails transferred to that route. We appreciate their situation, as we are alike troubled, and trust the evil may be remedied upon the completion of the new road.

Dr. D. T. Krebs has removed from Light Street to Mount Carmel, Northumberland county. He is a skillful physician and surgeon and has many friends in this county who are sorry to lose him. He was for some time one of the physicians for the Bloom poor district. We hope that in his new location he may find hosts of friends, and meet the success which he merits.

State Superintendent Higbee has issued a circular changing the time for examination of the pupils in soldiers' orphan schools and homes in the State. It has been the custom to begin the examinations at the close of the school year, but under this circular they will commence May 22d and end May 26th.—Grand Army men are specially invited to be present at these examinations.

The old County Commissioners of Lycoming county who were found to be eighteen hundred dollars short in their report of the last year, as returned by the auditing committee, made good their deficiency last week and obtained their receipts in full. As far as the money is concerned they are now at ease with the tax-payers.

The COLUMBIAN is the only paper in the county that ever publishes a supplement for the benefit of readers. We send one out this week, thereby giving our patrons four columns more of reading matter than they would otherwise get. We have more live advertising than we can accommodate, while most of our contemporaries are carrying from two to four columns of dead matter.

The violation of any of nature's laws brings its warning by the feeling of discomfort. Exposure will induce colds, throat diseases, consumption, etc. all of which give warning by a troublesome cough. Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in time, and remove both the cause and the effect of your discomfort.

On Friday night of last week about eight o'clock, people who happened to be on the business portion of Main street were startled at hearing the clattering of a horse's hoofs on the stone pavement. It proved to be a horse of B. F. Hicks, which George Hughes was driving and while on the Light Street hill some part of the harness broke and the horse ran away, taking the pavement from East street down to the COLUMBIAN office where it turned into the street and fell over a pile of lumber just below. It turned a complete somersault, but was not seriously injured. The wagon was left up on the hill. Nobody hurt.

Auditor General Lemon has just issued instructions to the Mercantile Appraiser of Montgomery county which might be of value to such officers in other sections of the State. He says butchers are taxable as merchants or peddlers and drovers are assessable as brokers. Bottlers of cider, sherry, porter or beer who sell in the original packages are not taxable, but if the goods are opened and sold in the establishment a license fee of $50 must be paid, while venders of bottled goods by wagons are taxed as peddlers. Heretofore these classes were omitted from the list of Appraisers and thus escaped an important tax.—Ex.

History of Columbia County.

It is our intention during the summer to publish a book that ought to be warmly welcomed to every household. There has never been published a complete and accurate history of this county, but for many years past Col. John G. Freeze has been collecting material, and has now got the work in shape for the printers. It will contain about 500 pages, octavo, with illustrations, and will cost $2.75 to $5.00 according to style of binding It will be published by subscription and all persons desiring a copy should engage it before hand, as the number printed will depend very much on the number of subscribers. A representative of this office will canvass the county, and we hope that he will meet with success, as a history of our own county will be of great value and interest to everybody.

Mifflin Items.

Mr. Charles Hartman of this town has moved to Bloomsburg.

Mr. S. M. Hetler has taken an agency for agricultural implements. He is selling the Johnston reaper.

Alfred Hoffman was suddenly called from his workshop o few days ago by the sad news that his father was dying.

Many of the farmers here have sowed their oats but it don't come up. The crust is too hard.

Mr. Stephen Creasy has his new house up and in a fair way for a speedy completion. The vacant place which the fire made will soon again be filled.

Mr. William Hartzel moved from the mill property to Mifflin. William Shannon is at present running the saw mill which is attached to the same mill.

Mr. Horace Creasy has bought a valuable horse and is now driving his four in sill wagon.

The Ten Mile Run was stocked with black bass on Saturday.

The Union Sunday School, at the Snyder school house, opened for the next term on Sunday last.

Messrs. Gearhart and Snyder have finished their oak lumber bill.

Deaths in Orangeville.

Miss Laura E. Conner, fourth daughter of Joseph P. and Lydia Conner who were drowned, by the horse which they were driving plunging into the canal above Lime Ridge as they were returning from Church Sunday April 8, 1877, died at the residence of Mr. George Fleckenstine, Sunday March 26th 1882 at the age of 15 years, 6 months and 25 days.

She had been sick but eleven days when Death called her away. She was buried beside her parents in the grave yard at the Briarcreek brick Church on Tuesday March 28th.

Many are the friends who sympathize with the brother and sisters who mourn the loss of their loved one.

About ten o'clock Wednesday evening, April 5th 1882, Mrs. Mary Catharine Conner peacefully departed this life at the age of 43 years, 8 months and 12 days.

Her premature death was caused by cancer in the stomach from which she had suffered for about two years.

Deceased was a daughter of John Hess of Fishingcreek and the widow of Emanuel Conner who died February 27, 1872. The remains were followed to the grave on Saturday last by a large concourse of relatives and friends, and laid to rest with her husband and her only son, Harry, who died last summer. She leaves an only child to mourn her loss, Miss Maggie Conner, whose sorrow for the departed mother will be shared by all who knew her.

The obsequies were observed at the Union Church, the Rev. Mr. Houtz, Pastor of the Reformed Church, of which she had been a member the greater part of her life, officiated, assisted by the Presbyterian minister Rev. Mr. Canfield. Text from which funeral sermon was preached. Job 23-10.

Nescopeck.

The widowed mother of Messrs. Harter of this place went to Michigan with her youngest son a few weeks ago, and on the 29th ult. they received a dispatch that she was dead and they were bringing her home, where they arrived on Friday evening, and on Thursday while John Harter was at Berwick dispatching to his brother, Dr. Harter of Espy, his little son Cyrus was taken with a convulsion and died almost instantly. So the aged grandmother was buried in the morning and the little grandson in the afternoon on Saturday April 1st.

Mr. D. F. Stiles one of the teachers here, closed his school with a free exhibition that did much credit to himself and pupils. The recitation by Miss Jennie Wolf "The Curfeu shall not ring to-night" was finely given. The seclection by W. Williams was well read and the poetry "Nescopeck" by Master Sweeney showed him to be a thinker far beyond his years, and his recitation "The Mosquito" was remarkably good.

Several new houses are being put up but the demand is greater than the supply.

Miss Kanouse has removed her Milliner store to Freeland.

The bridge over Nescopeck Creek is about completed and the trestling and bridge together is nearly thirteen hundred feet in length. INCOGNITO.

Easter Celebration

Easter Sunday was not the bright and beautiful day that was hoped for. The sun did not make its appearance and showers fell at intervals during the day, ending with a heavy rain in the evening. Notwithstanding this a large congregation assembled at St. Paul's Episcopal Church at six o'clock in the morning. The Church was beautifully trimmed with flowers, hanging baskets and flowering plants, and the altar and chancel were decked in holiday attire. The services consisted of full Morning prayer, except the Litany, as far as the Ante-Communion. The music, prepared especially for the occasion, was rendered by the excellent quartette choir, Mrs. Thomas Webb taking the place of Miss Maude Freeze, alto, who was prevented from attending by illness, and Miss Brower and Messrs. Wintersteen and Wirt singing their usual parts. The musical portion of the services consisted of the 99th hymn, responses, Easter Anthem, "Christ our Passover", Gloria Patri, by Danks, Te Deum, by Iesley, Jubilate, and closed with the 103rd hymn. The second service began at 10½ o'clock and was attended by a still larger congregation than the early meeting. It began with the Litany, followed by the Ante Communion service, a very able and interesting sermon by the Rector, Rev. L. Zahner, and the celebration of the Lord's supper. The choir sang the 104th, 105th, 107th and 207th hymns, the responses to the commandments, Gloria Tibi, Trisagion and Gloria in Excelsis The music was under the direction of Geo. E. Elwell.

In the evening the Sunday School had its Easter celebration, consisting of Evening Prayer, carols, the presentation of Easter offerings amounting to about $27.00 for the past six weeks, and an address by the Rector. Miss Katie Davids presided at the organ for the first time and played well. Altogether it was a very pleasant day inside the church and nothing but the absence of the sun prevented it from being thoroughly enjoyable.

Buckhorn Items.

Mr. Frank Waters has accepted a position in Espy, and Mr. Charles Terwilliger is filling the vacancy made by the same in Vanliew's store.

Miss Dora Hartman is visiting at Nanticoke, and Mr. G. W. Hartman from the same place is visiting his parents here.

Miss Nora Vanliew of Light Street spent Sabbath in this place.

There seems to be considerable sickness in this vicinity at present. But with the careful attendance from Dr. J. R. Montgomery the patients are all improving.

We are glad to note that on Hiram Girton who was nigh unto death is convalescent.

Your correspondent called Mr. J. F. Reagan who is prominently connected with the "Tide Water Pipe Line Co." and found him to be a gentleman in every respect, and well fitted for the trust reposed in him by the Company, and from him gleaned the following items: Mr. B. F. Warren Supt., Mr. W. J. Mahaffey Ass't. Supt., and Mr. J. F. Reagan Foreman. The work is carried on in three gangs or departments. First comes the teams with the pipe, of which there were twenty-two that passed through our village Monday, with Mr. Baltis Sterling as their Pioneer or Pipe distributer. Second is the Pipe gang containing fourteen men under the supervision of Mr. J. F. Reagan. This gang screws the pipe together. Third follows the digging gang composed of fifty men who dig the ditch three feet deep and bury the pipes and in the absence of Mr. Reagan, the gentleman they call "Tom" looks after their wants. The Company is certainly liberal in their pay for labor and board. A good team can make from six to seven dollars per day. Finally it makes lively times and the theory advanced by sore heads that the first thunder storm with its lightning will ignite the oil in these pipes and burn up this moral community, should forever cease.

From Stillwater.

Mr. Immanuel Savage of Jackson and Miss Roccia McHenry of Greenwood entered into an agreement on the 23rd day of March, to live together as husband and wife, the writer sealing the contract.

And now his brother John Savage of Benton, and Miss Nora M. Hess of Jackson have gone and done the same thing. This occurred on the 6th inst.

"Ah, gentle dames! it gars me greet,
To think how many counsels sweet,
How many lengthen'd sage advices,
The husband frae the wife despises!"

C. B. McHenry is expecting Joseph Redline's mill to put in an appearance on his premises soon. He has a quantity of timber to cut into lumber.

The contemplated railroad still attracts much attention and furnishes the chief topic of conversation in the neighborhood. The present corps of surveyors passed through here last week, and are now struggling up the North Mountain.

Ploughing began last week in earnest by the farmers, but Easter having come with its usual storm has put a stop to it for the present. Farmers need patience as well as editors and preachers.

Quite a number of our neighbors changed their place of residence this spring.

Would it not be well to have a law passed requiring constables and grand jurors to state under oath whether or not they know of any violation of the Game, Fish or Sunday laws? What say you, sporting men? Unless there is some more efficient means for the enforcement of these laws enacted they must remain as now a dead letter on our Statute Books. Who will take the matter in hand?

I am glad to say that about all the real estate owners in this community and its vicinity have signed a release in favor of the now railroad. This speaks well for the public spirit and intelligence of our people.

D. M. KISTLER.

Catawissa Locals.

C. C. Peacock Esq. of your town, who is now in the employ of the Tidewater Pipe Line Co., passed through here last Monday on his way to Beaver Valley.

Shumantown is building up rapidly. A number of new dwellings are now in course of construction and others will be commenced soon.

The foundation for the new Item building on Main street is completed and the building will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

John Vought and Samuel Reeder, who lived near Elysburg, Northumberland Co., died the latter part of last week and were buried the fore part of this. Both of the deceased have many relatives and friends living in this county.

The Reformed congregation here, of which Rev. Dechant is pastor, is building a church on the corner of Third and Pine streets. The structure will be of brick, with a large basement suitable for lecture rooms and Sunday School purposes, and a commodious audience room above. These people should receive substantial encouragement in their undertaking.

Rev. Reuben E. Wilson, the newly appointed pastor of the M. E. Church at this place, met with a very cordial welcome from his congregation on Wednesday the 5th., that being the day he moved his family to town. He preached two able and eloquent sermons to large audiences on Easter, suiting his subject both morning and evening to the anniversary of the Resurrection. The altar was handsomely decorated with mottoes and flowers.

The schools of town recently moved into their new building on the hill. This building is heated with steam and furnished throughout according to the latest and most approved methods. While the building is large and commodious in all its appartments yet the rooms are all occupied—there being about three hundred and sixty students in regular attendance—giving employment to a corps of six experienced instructors. Altogether the schools and building will compare favorably with any other public school in this section of the State. This is an institution to which the people of town may justly point with pride.

Pine Institute.

The fifth meeting of the Teachers' Local Institute for the district of Pine was held in the church at Iola on the 1st of April.

The President, Mr. Eves, called the meeting to order at 11 o'clock and requested Mr. J. Emory Eves to furnish us with music at intervals during the exercises of the day which he did to the gratification of all present. Beside vocal music by a well drilled choir he gave us band music by six little 8-year old boys.

After dinner the County Superintendent, Mr. Grimes arrived and took charge of the exercises.

Beside the exercises of the different schools we were entertained by able speeches by A. P. Young of Greenwood and Dr. Patton of Millville.

In the competitive exercises in reading the Superintendent appointed Mr. Smith, Miss Alice Young and Miss Rhen judges. Miss Rote's school carried off the palm.

Mr. Grimes suggested that the exercises be changed and that the subject of improvement in our public schools be discussed by all who felt an interest in education, and the subject was ably discussed by A. P. Young, Dr. Patton, Mr. James Daty, of Luzerne county, Mr. P. Faus and Mr. Grimes.

All agreed that we need better school houses, better wages to teachers, and better ventilation in the school rooms

After this we were favored with recitations and declamations by the little boys and girls of the different schools. The Superintendent gave valuable instruction on different subjects during the afternoon.

The exercises throughout were very interesting and instructive to old and young.

Four meetings of the district Institute were held prior to this during the past winter at three different places viz. Center Church, Wesley Chapel and Pine Summit Church. They were well attended and those participating seemed to take a lively interest in the work.

The County Superintendent has been with us at three Sessions and Ex-County Superintendent Snyder was with us once, and we thank both for their labor among us. "Their works do follow them." At 5 o'clock P. M. the meeting closed.

Jackson Slivers.

Elder C. W. Cooper addressed a large audience at the Christian church last Sabbath morning.

Easter passed off very quietly in this place.

Mrs. Daniel Stevens has been suffering for sometime with an abscess under her arm, which has caused her several restless nights.

W. L. Manning lost a fine fresh cow last week by its getting fast in the woods, she did not return in the evening with the rest of the cattle. Search was made the next morning and when found she was dead.

The mill of our lumberman C. W. Lewis which has been idle for a few days on account of breakage, is again in operation with D. W. Parkers at levers. Dan can handle them in good shape. As a sawyer there are but few his equal. Mr. Lewis feels greatly the loss of his worthy fireman H. W. Hess, who is going in business for himself. Success to you, Harvey.

John H. Fritz one of our enterprising farmers has been preparing wood for summers to come. He has been sawing it for several days with the machine, which is a very nice way to prepare it for the stove. He anticipates enough to last him five years.

John F. Derr sold his team and wagon last week, as he expects to rent his farm for the coming summer.

Alexander Knouse purchased two young horses last week, in place of the one he sold a few weeks ago, that the pilgrim reported. Alex. is one of those thorough going enterprising young men who is always looking ahead.

Miss Estella Lewis who has been very sick for some time is fast recovering. Stella is loved and respected by all who know her. NEW COMER.

Fishingcreek Items.

Trout Fishing is now in season. The Stillwater correspondent was inquiring where all the trout are. If you go to Mr. Kinter's house about meal time you will be apt to have some to eat for I think he is the most scientific trout fisher in the county.

There was a small fall of snow here Sabbath evening.

The dwelling house of Wm. Miller near Pealertown was struck by lightning last Friday morning before daylight, the time of that shower. They say it flattened the stove pipe and did considerable damage to the house, also stunned Mr. and Mrs. Miller and filled the house with sulphur.

The Rev. E. M. Chilcoat preached at Asbury for the first time this conference year. The people are generally well suited with him. May he have great success.

The first Quarterly Conference will be held at Asbury April 14th inst. The new presiding elder is expected to be in attendance.

Benjamin Pealer moved to Asbury this Spring. Mrs. Ida Pealer who has been so long afflicted is now walking about and doing some house work.

Mr. Joseph Dietterick near Asbury died on Friday morning about the time of that hard clap of thunder. He was quite an old man and was beloved and respected by all that knew him. The funeral took place on Monday the tenth inst., and the services were conducted by Rev. Houtz.

The winter crops are looking fine at the present time.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whiskey beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head, tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused by imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness, and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors, and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest of blessings.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last!

No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. William's Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 or 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electuaries do more harm than good. William's Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles &c., and for nothing else.

Read what Hon. J. M. Coffinberry of Cleveland says about Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. William's Indian Ointment.

SKIN DISEASES CURED

By Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment. Cures as if by magic, pimples, black heads or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

☞The first and only positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Stable Cleaning.

Forty to fifty years ago, and we are sorry to say that the evil still exists at the present time at points far away from towns and cities and dense populations, there was nothing so much neglected as the keeping of cow stables clean. As a common rule they were cleaned out once a week—on Saturday—and then it was not so much on account of the comfort and health of the animals and the convenience and tidiness of the milker, as simply because the pile of manure may be gotten out of the way to allow of the putting up and letting loose of the cattle mornings and evenings. We have seen the manure in the cattle stalls two feet deep of almost clear dung, with the hinder part of the animal at least one foot higher than the front part, and the cattle being driven out to the pasture field with quantities of fresh dung hanging to their flanks, which from day to day received layer upon layer until it was one disgusting mass, and was left there until it became dry and hard and fell off in flakes of its own action. The litter—about a fourth of the quanity cattle now receive—consisted of stalks of cornfodder which could not be eaten, the weeds left in hay, the rakings of dirty straw lying about the outbuildings, and sometimes mixed with a few leaves from the woods. The food of the dairy cows consisted of musty cornfodder, second-crop clover and orchard-grass, badly cured, chaff from the winnowings of the threshed grain, oats straw, &c. The cows were of course as thin almost as skeletons, and their product of poor milk was about one-half of what would have been obtained from properly-fed cattle. The fact is that the farmer took no pride in his live stock. The idea of giving them clean stalls, good ventilation and nourshing food, never entered his thoughts, and if it did would have been regarded as an utter waste of money, without any return.

But look at the stables now of the dairy-stock! Their stalls are wide, clean and fresh, the cattle themselves are bright and sleek, with no projecting ribs, and pleasant to handle, well-fed, comfortable in every way, and giving two or three times the quantity of milk and as rich as it is abundant. The butter from such cows commands twice the price from its careful manufacture and uniform excellence. At the present time also the farmer feels more pride in his dairy stock than in anything else upon his farm. He finds that they give a double return for all the extra care and cost of their improved treatment, and that he has nothing upon his premises that pay him so well in every respect as they.

Finding so satisfactory a return from this part of his stock, he extends this extra care in his purchases of sheep and swine, and after a few years of trial he discovers that they pay equally well in proportion as his cows. And in that way his improved system of husbandry progresses from year to year, and his methods are patterns for his neighbors, until a whole district is revolutionized and the old harum-scarum ways are utterly abandoned. —Germantown Telegraph.

Turkeys.

If you are thinking of raising turkeys study up the subject this Spring and hatch the earliest eggs you can procure. Do nothing half way, but make up your mind to give them the best care for the first ten weeks of their existence; after that they will take care of themselves. The following advice from the American Poultry Yard is excellent and should be closely followed: "In some cases even the best care fails to secure a good number of young turkeys. Before they have fully feathered up they are tenderest of birds, but when they have a full dress of feathers nothing in the way of poultry is more hardy or less liable to disease or disorder. As young turkeys, like young guineas, make such rapid growth of feathers when young, they reqnire constant care and food in fair quantities and often to enable them to withstand the great strains on their systems, and not supplying them fully at that stage of growth is what causes so many to drop off suddenly from no apparent cause. Boiled eggs, chopped fine, no doubt makes good food for turkeys, to commence with, but it is not at all necessary. One of the most successful breeders of turkeys we know of never fed a crumb of boiled egg, but commences with stale bread-crumbs, slightly mixed with new, fresh milk, giving them five or more feeds daily, but only in such quantities as they would eat up clean at every feed Onion-tops or lettuce, chopped up fine and mixed with their food, was given, while an occasional seasoning of red cayenne pepper was supplied. They were treated to sweet milk for drinking purposes, and when they got some little age cottage cheese was liberally supplied, and they are very fond of it. There is as much in the care as in the feeding, and they must have the best of both to induce them to stay with us. Dampness and dew are fatal to young turkeys; the remedy suggests itself in a preventive."

Railroad Sociability.

"Speaking about the sociability of railroad travelers," said the man with the crutches and a watch pocket over his eye, "I never got so well acquainted with the passengers on the train as I did the other day on the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. We were going at the rate of about thirty miles an hour, and another train from the other direction telescoped us. We were all thrown into each other's society, and brought into immediate social contact, so to speak. I went over and sat in the lap of a corpulent lady from Manitoba, and a girl from Chicago jumped over nine seats and sat down on the plug hat of a preacher from La Crosse, with so much timid, girlish enthusiasm that it shoved his hat clear down over his shoulders. Everybody seemed to lay aside the usual cool reserve of strangers, and we made ourselves entirely at home. A shy young man with an emaciated oilcloth valise left his own seat and sat down in a lunch basket where a bridle couple seemed to be wrestling with their first pic-nic. Do you suppose that a reticent young man would have done such a thing on ordinary occasions? Do you think if he had been at a celebration at home that he would have risen impetuously and gone where those people were eating by themselves and sat down in the cranberry jelly of a total stranger? I should rather think not. Why, one old man who probably at home led the class meeting, and who was as dignified as Roscue Conkling's father, was eating a piece of custard pie when we met the other train, and he left his own seat and went over to the other end of the car and shot that piece of custard in the ear of a beautiful widow from Iowa. People traveling somehow forget the austerity of their home lives, and form acquaintances that sometimes last through life.—Laramie Boomerang.

Courses of study prescribed by the State:
I. Model School. II. Preparatory. III. Elementary. IV, Classical.
1. Adjunct Courses: Academic. II. Commercial. III. Course in Music. IV. Course in Art. V. Course in Physical Culture.
The Elementary, Scientific and Classical Courses are PROFESSIONAL, and Students graduating therein, receive State Diplomas, conferring the following corresponding Degrees; Master of the Elements; Master of the Sciences; Master of the Classics. Graduates in the other Courses receive Normal Certificates their attainments, signed by the Officers of the Board of Trustees.
The course of study prescribed by the State is liberal, and the Scientific and Classical courses are not inferior to those of our best Colleges.
The State requires a higher order of citizenship. The times demand it. It is one of the prime objects of this School to help to secure it, by furnishing intelligent and efficient Teachers for her Schools. To this end it solicits young persons of good abilities and good purposes,—those who desire to improve their time and their talents, as Students. To all such it promises aid in developing their powers, and abundant opportunities for well paid labor after leaving School. For Catalogue, address the Principal.

ESTEY ORGANS

STRONG COMPETITION
In the manufacture of Organs is resulting in the production and sale of cheap goods, made from inferior materials. I refer particularly to bogus Organs that are continually springing into existence, without any merit whatever, except to be offered cheap, and then when purchased found to be dear at any price. Will you not then, reader,
If you Contemplate Buying an Organ
